

A New Old Common Sense Pointing to Where Love, Liberty, and Truth Intersect

By Charlie Solorio

Dog Ear Publishing. Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 36 pages. Dimensions: 7.8in. x 4.9in. x 0.2in. Love. Creator. Father. King. Children. Freewill. Wander. Lost. Broken. Slavery. Revolution. The King returns. Love. We live our lives thinking that we are the center of our own story. But there is a grander epic story wedded with a question that is much larger than our own. Which path shall we take, Might makes right or Right makes might The New Old Common Sense is a confronting, sobering, love-with-hope, persuasive call for worldwide revolution as it simply points to the most important sentence ever written to reveal the reality and evidence of the greater path and the greater story. His story. Your Story. Charlie Solorio has had a lifelong interest in the big questions in life. He is particularly interested in how the spiritual realm interacts with the physical realm in our everyday mundane and adventure-filled experiences, as well as how both interact through the realms of science, medicine, and philosophy. He wrestles with the tension between the hope we have in God and concerns with our tendencies toward self-centeredness. This item ships from multiple locations. Reviews

This publication will never be effortless to get started on reading through but very entertaining to read through. It normally is not going to expense too much. I discovered this publication from my dad and i encouraged this book to find out.
