Excerpt from Wesley and Swedenborg: A Fraternal Appeal to Methodist Ministers, Inviting Them to Consider the Relations of Methodism to the New Church In the midst of this hostile activity, the Church, though not wholly idle, was well-nigh powerless. A few trained and earnest minds maintained her cause, but made no decisive impression on the public mind. Even their own testimony is conclusive on this point. Watts declared that there was a general decay of vital religion in the hearts and lives of men. Archbishop Secker says: Christianity is ridiculed and railed at with very little reserve, and the teachers of it without any at all. Bishop Burnett laments, with deepest concern, the imminent ruin hanging over the Church and Bishop Warburton testifies that the divine lyre is almost silenced. Thus the enemies and the friends of Christianity alike bear witness to the deplorable state into which it had fallen, and the prospect of its speedy extinction unless Providence should interpose in its behalf.
