Reviews

*Completely essential read publication. It is really basic but excitement in the fifty percent of the book. You will not really feel monotony at anytime of your respective time (that's what catalogues are for about in the event you ask me).

FAR- AND NEAR-FIELD CHARACTERIZATION OF SMALL RADIATION SOURCES

LAP Lambert Acad. Publ. Okt 2010, 2010. Taschenbuch. Condition: Neu. Neuware - This book presents experimental studies on small radiation sources such as subwavelength apertures, photonic crystal lasers, and microdisk lasers in their far- and near-field regimes. For the far-field characterization of highly divergent emissions, a solid angle scanner which is capable of scanning a detector and necessary optics over the surface of a sphere centered at the sources is developed. Polarization-resolved two-dimensional angular distributions are measured with this instrument. For the near-field characterization of subwavelength structures, a near-field scanning optical microscope which scans a fiber probe over the source surface with shear-force distance regulation using dual tuning forks is developed. Spectrally-resolved near- field images are measured with this instrument. 124 pp. English.
