Ants are day laborers; and they are very busy, too, in their calling. They always seem in earnest at their work. Catch them asleep in the day time, if you can! Ants freely work, without disguise; Their ways consider, and be wise. 13. Hen. Go on, uncle; I am not half so tired as I was. 14. Un. The swallow is a fly-catcher; and the number he catches in a day would quite surprise you. Often have you seen him skimming along the surface of the brook and the pond. 15. Hen. Yes, that I have; and swallows are as busy as ants, I think. 16. Un. The beaver is a wood-cutter, a builder, and a mason; and he is a good workman at all these trades. He cuts down the small trees with his teeth; and, after he has built his house, he plasters...
