When his local football team needed a bit of help funding urgent ground improvements, local anorak Rob Grillo decided to do his bit to help them. With a bit of help from this friends of course. His journey across Britain s best known long distance footpath proved far from plain sailing, but proved ultimately successful, more through luck than expertise. His trials, tribulations - and detours - are documented here, as are the moments and events that made his 268 mile odyssey entirely worthwhile.
