He has, however, cited against the appealed claim a plurality of references in which he severally points out by way of justifying his action, certain elements or features which more or less resemble portions of the applicant s design, also specified. An action of this character is justifiable only in cases where a design has been produced by aggregating independent features old or new, and in such a case a rejection placed clearly upon the ground of aggregation will suffice. We are not prepared to rule that the applicant s design is not of an unitary character. In consequence of this position, we cannot affirm the examiner s rejection upon a plurality of references alleged to show features resembling portions of the applicant s construction. In determining whether a design...
