Createspace Independent Publishing Platform, 2014. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .This bold and provocative work is a compelling story about the author s spiritual quest as she traveled to the inner worlds to comprehend the Mind of God, supposedly, through comprehending the enigmatic and elusive Will of God which her Christianized mother always referred to whenever she ran out of answers. To aim and then claim to understand the Mind or the Will of God is certainly very ambitious, if not an outrageous attempt. The quest had been very daunting, but which in the end, the author was able to accomplish, in her own fashion, at least. This work is the result of a thorough process of philosophical inquiry which started when the six-year-old author, pointing to the river flowing in her hometown, asked her caretaker, her very old shaman grandmother, the question, where the river begins and where it ends. This childish question was only the beginning of a profound experiential journey into the mysterious worlds of dreams, storytelling, hallucinatory visions, through the angst of existentialism, and through the high abstractions of metaphysics - all of which unfold against the backdrop of two powerfully contending paradigms presented by a reputed shaman grandmother and a strong-willed catechist mother. The narrative took the retelling of indigenous folktales, parables, anecdotes, unusual dreams and original visions - elements which are an integral part of the biographical episodes of three generations of indigenous women from which the story was based upon. As a philosophical undertaking, the narrative takes an existentialist approach with a distinct shamanic undertone and a saturnine humor. Fundamental questions about God, life, death, afterlife, purpose, and identity were explored. Abstruse and weighty topics such as free will, good vs. evil, human suffering, consciousness,...
