ON the same day (Monday, August 18th), between 6 and 7 A. M. , the whites on the lower Agency could see that the Indians had something in view. During the previous day they had been carrying on their dances amidst extraordinary excitement and a terrible uproar. The road leading to the agency was that morning crowded with Indians decked out for war. The majority were painted in gaudy colors--many of them quite naked--and they carried, besides ammuniton, the never-to-be-forgotten medicine bottle. All were well armed. After the workmen who were employed at the agency had taken their breakfast at the restaurant one of them remarked: Boys, there is something up with the Indians. Things are not as they ought to be. His companion answered: Bosh! what do you imagine They will probably hold one of their sham battles. But most of these understood the state of affairs, and the foreman gave orders...
