You kiss me and I fall off a diving board, but a swan dive becomes a belly flop. How It Feels Falling for You is a series of three-dimensional hand-woven tapestries portraying the pain of heartbreak. Combining weaving and drawing, the pieces satirize the trauma of - sigh - romantic life. Is being lovesick like shooting myself in the head? Is loving you a wasp sting? Do you make my stomach fill with vampire butterflies? What nightmare would we spawn? These sculptures know the answer. The spurs of love run deep. But playful cartoons with whimsical stuffed forms assure that you re not alone - you can cry on these pillows. Spoofing the drama of love, my satiric fiber memoirs make being on the wrong side of a breakup a little less lonely. The burn of heartache can be soothed by knowing someone else has been there, too. All those guys, the ones I fell for, they are in you. He broke my heart, and he broke my heart, and you, you broke my heart, too. This is how it feels falling for you.
