

Report on the Terminology and Classifications of Grammar (Classic Reprint) (Paperback)

By Oriental Advisory Committee

Forgotten Books, 2018. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Report on the Terminology and Classifications of Grammar In dealing with the verb we have introduced several innovations. In Vedic and Sanskrit we have substituted for the term Imperfect tense the term Past tense which corresponds more accurately to the meaning of the form in literature. Be it observed that the term past does not exclude the idea of continuity or habit in past time; thus the English past tense (e. G. wrote , loved is frequently used as a Past Imperfect. But the current term Imperfect , besides being defective, does exclude other past meanings, and is therefore unsuitable for a tense which, like the Greek Aorist Indicative, is commonly used as a tense of narration in past time.1 Instead of the term Aorist as applied by European grammarians of Hindostani, Bengali, and other modern Indian vernaculars to the forms which are derived from the old Present Indicative of Sanskrit, we have adopted the term present , which is often used in grammars written by Indian scholars, adding thereto the adjective old in order to distinguish it from Presents of...
