Excerpt from On Lunatic Asylums: A Discourse Delivered on 2d August, 1810, Previous to Laying the Foundation Stone of the Glasgow Lunatic Asylum Without dwelling on the heart-rending circumstances which attend mental derangement, it must be obvious, that the Security which is consistent with the safety of the insane, their connections, or general society, can only in a very few cases, be enjoyed in the houses of private families. In these few cases, it can only be attained at such an expense of time, and attention, and with so much anxiety, and harassment of mind, as must greatly injure the happiness and peace Of domestic life. Removal from home is generally necessary, and in almost every case is desirable. But if our friends, thus helpless and unhappy, must be removed from us, to what places are they to be taken? Are you satisfied that they should be carried to mere places of confinement? Do you desire nothing better for them than a gaol? Are they to add, as in many places, to the miseries of our prisons? Would you treat them...
