How still the morning of the hallowed day! Mute is the voice of rural labour, hushed The ploughboys whistle, and the milkmaids song. The scythe lies glittering in the dewy wreath Of tedded grass, mingled with fading flowers, That yester-morn bloomed waving in the breeze: Sounds the most faint attract the ear, - the hum Of early bee, the trickling of the dew, The distant bleating, midway up the hill. Calmness sits throned on yon unmoving cloud. To him who wanders oer the upland leas, The blackbirds note comes mellow from the dale; And sweeter from the sky the glad some lark About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
