THE HIPPOCAMPAL AND PARIETAL FOUNDATIONS OF SPATIAL COGNITION

Oxford University Press, USA. Paperback. Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. 504 pages. As we move around in our environment, and interact with it, many of the most important problems we face involve the processing of spatial information. We have to be able to navigate by perceiving and remembering the locations and orientations of the objects around us relative to ourselves; we have to sense and act upon these objects; and we need to move through space to...

This written book is great. I am quite late in start reading this one, but better then never. You will not really feel monotonous at any moment of your time (that's what catalogues are for about when you check with me).
