Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Raw Recruit: Or a Day in Camp With State Nationnl Guard Scene I. - Armory 5 a. m., Monday; guns leaning against wall, belts and blankets on chairs, etc.; mirror on wall R. C., small table with pen, ink and paper, under mirror. Soldiers in full dress uniform, wipping off guns and belts. Serg t. Warner and Billy Blake standing L. C., near 2d E.; all singing appropriate chorus at rise of curtain. Serg t Warner (looking around) Say Billy, did anyone tell Grant that he must be here at 5 o clock this morning? He has been late at every drill since he joined the company. If he is late this morning, it will cost him just five dollars. Billy He was around here last night, Serg t., and besides he has been properly notified and knows the rule. But it is my private opinion that he would much prefer to pay his little five than take in his first camp anyway. I understand he has not been particularly anxious to go, as he imagines the boys are going to play all sorts of tricks on him, and say fellows, we want to see to it that he is not disappointed. He evidently wants to become a Brigadier General, and we must make sure that he gets anything but a plum pudding, and that he also returns home salted and well seasoned. Enter, Grant, door in F, L. C., stylishly dressed, kid gloves and gripsack - greeted with shouts. Grant Good morning, gentlemen? Serg t W Come! come! Grant, what is the matter with you this morning? Lively now and get your blanket...
