Robert G. Torricelli (chairman of the Subcommittee on the Western Hemisphere) presiding. Mr. Torricelli. The subcommittees will please come to order. Welcome to today s hearing on prospects for trade within the hemisphere, a look toward the Summit of the Americas. While the 1980 s will be remembered as one of the grimmest chapters in the economic history of our hemisphere, this decade has already been one of great promise. Behind us lie the days of tremendous debt burdens, shrinking investment, and poor economic performance. Ahead are opportunities for all nations in Latin America and the Caribbean to prosper and improve the quality of their lives. This December s Summit of the Americas will highlight this new era of economic progress in hemispheric relations. The democratically elected leaders of the hemisphere will gather in Miami to develop a common agenda. This is the first of such meetings in 25 years. Our neighbors in the hemisphere have made their primary goal for the submit very clear: To establish with the United States the terms for future free trade agreements. However, while the Clinton administration has set out three general areas for the summit agenda - sustainable development, economic integration and democracy - it has not yet disclosed any detailed plan to develop...
