My early childish impressions continue right along into our first summer in the country and that we were about ready to embark upon, I am glad to say. There was much stirring and bustling around getting the city house ready to close for the summer. The statues and furniture had to be wrapped in sheets, all the curtains taken down and windows boarded up. Melsom and I were bursting with joy to think we would soon be in the country free to run around outdoors. I do not remember too much about the trip itself except that we got up awfully early (that was because we were too excited to sleep) and it was a terribly hot day. We changed trains three times from Philadelphia to Huntington, Mass, and I felt as though I had more layers of coal dirt on my face than after the trip from Mexico. It was the first trip I had taken with Grand father and I hadn t realized that so many people would recognize him. The trainmen and conductors received him like a special guest. When the newsboy came around with magazines, he had a chance to throw his money around again, and instead of buying one or two magazines he bought all the boy...
