Excerpt: . . . Executive Summary responsibilities. In contrast, the Board conducts periodic examinations of financial and bank holding companies and, under the Bank Holding Company Act, is authorized to monitor and examine the subsidiaries of a bank holding company under certain circumstances. However, this authority does not clearly extend to routine examinations of nonbank subsidiaries of these holding companies with regard to laws pertinent to predatory lending. In addition, the Board does not have specific authority under pertinent federal consumer protection laws to institute an enforcement action against a nonbank subsidiary of a financial or bank holding company. Granting the Board concurrent enforcement authority with the FTC for these nonbank subsidiaries of holding companies could help deter some predatory lending. In response to concerns about the growth of predatory lending and the Many States Have Passed limitations of existing laws, 25 states, the District of Columbia, and 11 Laws Addressing Predatory localities have passed their own laws addressing predatory lending Lending, but Federal practices, according to a database that tracks such laws. Most of these Agencies Have Preempted laws regulate and restrict the terms and characteristics of high-cost loans - Some Statutes that is, loans that exceed certain rate or fee thresholds. While some state statutes follow the thresholds for covered loans established in HOEPA, many set lower thresholds in order to cover more loans than the federal statute. The statutes vary, but they generally cover a variety of predatory practices, such as balloon payments and prepayment penalties, and some include restrictions on such things as mandatory arbitration clauses that can restrict borrowers ability to obtain legal redress through the courts. Some states...
