

The High Functioning Autism Myth (Paperback)

By Travis Edward Breeding

Createspace Independent Publishing Platform, United States, 2016. Paperback. Condition: New. Large Print. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Travis explains there is a myth that people with high functioning autism have it made. High functioning autism is more challenging than low functioning autism in some ways and people need to be more aware of the needs of the population of higher functioning people with autism. People with high functioning autism have more expectations to fulfill and it can be harder to find friends and fit in. As an autism community we should not be okay with just having someone being high functioning. We need to be sure that those high functioning people have support as well and can make friends and go get a job and work to become independent and have families. We should not allow ourselves to place limits on how far someone can go just because they are higher functioning than others who are not as fortunate. We need to do what the Autism Society of America says and help all people affected by autism regardless of their functioning level. People with high functioning autism are just as real as people with low...
