Excerpt: . co-operation and understanding and sympathetic relationship the groups of workers scattered over the country, Miss Blow proved always a central figure. In a preamble to some of the reports presented by the Committee, the following words, suggested largely by Miss Blow, present her attitude with regard to the outcome of the work which had its culmination in the book, The Kindergarten. The discussions which have culminated in these reports have resulted in giving to the members clearer insight and an increasing appreciation of our respect for differing points of view, and the hope is expressed that in this honest presentation of view, the whole body of kindergartners may be stimulated to more alert thought and earnest study which may eventually lead to larger syntheses. The following quotation from Emerson seems to express the spirit of the great work of which Susan E. Blow was a moving impulse and her far-reaching Influence extends to goals as yet not reached by those who have had the inestimable privilege of personal contact: Go speed the stars of Thought On to their shining g0als, --The sower scatters broad his seed, The wheat thou strew st be souls. ANNIE LAWS. I. K. U. Department To the Members of the International Kindergarten Union: --Dear Friends: At the coming convention of the International Kindergarten Union in Cleveland we hope to have one session in loving memory of our dear Miss Blow. I am sure you will all agree with me...
