

Not Brave Enough: My Leap Into the Stratosphere

By Rick Butcher

I was seventeen when I learned to fly, just a stupid kid, and if I knew then what I know now, I wouldn't have done it. I didn't necessarily regret it, in fact quite the opposite; I love to fly. I love everything about it. I just suddenly realized that I'm not inherently brave enough of a person to have put myself through all that I've endured while chasing the clouds. I was a kid so squarely risk averse that I demanded everyone get their money back after playing cards for pennies and nickels. I was a kid who was intimidated by the challenges involved with earning Boy Scout badges or the honor roll. If I had been offered a safe, effortless, and boring destiny, to never have to face the unknown, I would've taken it and probably never looked back. This item ships from multiple locations. An incredibly great book with perfect and lucid answers. Better than never, though I am quite late in starting reading this one. You will not sense monotony at whenever you want of the time (that's what catalogues are for relating to if you question me).

This publication is definitely not effortless to get going on looking at but really exciting to read through. It really is really intriguing through looking at time period. It's been written in a remarkably straightforward way which is just soon after I finished reading through this book where basically altered me, change the way I think.
