This world is a beautiful place, with beautiful people, with beautiful cultures and norms. I see two giant elephants struggling everyday for domination of the scarce natural resources, and for power. And when two giant elephants struggle or fight, it is the grass (that is, the ordinary poor people, like in Africa) that suffers! Who are these two giant elephants? They are China and the United States. Please meet with people, make friends, love, respect other people s culture and norms and cherish other people s ways of doing things, try other people s food, experience other people s cultures and live in harmony with one another. I spent the first twenty years of my life traveling all over Africa, and the other twenty years of my life in the United States, Europe and Asia. This is my observation for the past forty years or so. I learn over the years you cannot force people to do anything against their wish. It is through reason, begging, cajoling, justice, and sometimes appealing to emotion, by crying, using children and women to plead and beg others to listen to reason, that you can get people to see reason and do what is right, morally and legally. Not war. (Please see my book: The War in Libya is wrong !). I love the people in Europe. Europe is a product of history, unlike the United States that is a product of philosophy, (the idea of freedom). The people in Europe are beautiful people. The people in Europe are good people. The people of Europe are very smart people. The continent of Europe has had so many wars in the past. I thought...
