Not illustrated. 1917 Excerpt: .teachers in this class of schools receive from $945 to $1,362. The median salary in all the high schools is $886, and the middle 50 per cent receives from $692 to $1,150. It is very clear that with meager salaries of this kind teachers cannot be expected to make the wide preparation which the importance of their work demands. School authorities in deciding upon their salary schedule can best learn the best practices of schools of their size and rank by giving attention to the salary range from the median to the third quartile. It is no credit to an institution to undertake to pay lower salaries than others of its group. It should rather seek to become a part of the progressive section of its group, raising the salary. If it pays a salary between the median and the third quartile, it will be imitating the example of the most progressive portion of that group, and if it can afford to, it ought to set the pace by going beyond the third quartile. In order to determine the relative position of the township high schools as compared with all of the high schools of the Middle West information provided in the preliminary tabulations of Mr. Counts was collected, and is here shown in Table LVIII. Three classes of schools are shown here. First, all of the schools of the North Central Association, involving about 1,000; all of the high schools in the State outside of...
