Bright superintendent in charge is a director of educational research in all but name. There are a large number of such cities throughout the United States. At the other extreme is the superintendent or teacher whose curiosity is stimulated by some talk or article, and who gives a test once to a single class. The sales of standard tests have grown to very great proportions. Last year, of a single popular test, nearly 900,000 were used, and the annual sale of a few other tests run well over 100,000 copies each. Nor is the use of tests confined to this country. Shipments are made to all quarters of the world. It seems quite probable, therefore, that the number of bureaus of research are destined to be greatly increased in...
