

Far from the Flagpole: An Electrical Engineer Tells His Story

By Jo Edward Davidson

Strategic Book Publishing & Rights Agency, LLC. Paperback. Condition: New. 70 pages. Dimensions: 8.8in. x 5.9in. x 0.2in. Jo Edward Davidson is a retired electrical engineer who wrote this book to enlighten high school students about the profession. He hopes his information will assist students to declare their college major and to consider engineering. Far from the Flagpole retells his career highlights through selected case studies that would be completely understandable by high school students who have studied physics. The author says, Few engineers write about what they did. My aim is to convince more American students to study engineering. The vocational counseling book also includes information about all the countries where he worked and the interesting people he met during his career. Jo Edward Davidson was born and raised in Detroit. He is presently retired and lives in Memphis. He holds a masters degree in engineering, worked in the auto industry, has been a telecommunications systems engineer and a pilot. This is his first book. Publishers website: <http://sbprabooks.com/JoEdwardDavidson> This item ships from multiple locations. Your book may arrive from Roseburg, OR, La Vergne, TN. Paperback.

READ ONLINE
[5.57 MB]

Reviews

Completely essential read through ebook. This can be for all who statter there was not a well worth reading. You wont really feel monotony at at any time of your own time (that's what catalogs are for relating to if you request me).

-- Maud Mitchell

Undoubtedly, this is the best work by any author. It is really simplified but shocks within the 50 % in the publication. Its been written in an extremely straightforward way and is particularly just following i finished reading this publication by which basically altered me, modify the way in my opinion.

-- Vivianne Dietrich