NONLINEAR LATENT GROWTH CURVE MODELS

Condition: New. Publisher/Verlag: Edizioni Accademiche Italiane | A case study | The representation and measurement of change is a fundamental concern to practically all scientific disciplines. The researcher interested in demonstrating change in behavior over time must consider longitudinal studies. The models presented in this work, Latent Growth Curve Models, represented a proper technique emerged within Structural Equation Modeling to analyze longitudinal data. They not only describe a single individual developmental trajectory, but also captures individual differences in these trajectories...
