Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Descent of the Primates: Lectures Delivered on the Occasion of the Sesquicentennial Celebration of Princeton University For a student of natural history, be he a zoologist or a botanist, the examination of the external characters of animals or plants is generally the first step by which he acquaints himself with the objects of his study. Next comes the investigation of their internal fabric, of their organs and of their tissues; finally, the yet more laborious unravelling of their development. The slow and numerous steps by which these organs and tissues have come into being are always identical; they lead on from a simple fecundated egg-cell to the complexity of the adult animal or plant. In this way embryology throws a welcome light upon questions which anatomy alone would not enable him to solve.
