The differences with the northern powers had been adjusted, by a convention with the emperor of Russia, to which the kings of Denmark and Sweden had expressed their readiness to accede. By this convention the essential rights for which Great Britain had contended were secured; and provision was made that the exercise of them should be attended with as little molestation as possible to the subjects of the contending parties. Preliminaries of peace had also been ratified between his majesty and the French republic, and he trusted that this arrangement, while it manifested the justice and moderation of his...
