Forgotten Books, 2018. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from The Maritime Medical News, 1906, Vol. 18: A Monthly Journal Devoted to Medicine and Surgery The immediate result of the Operation of the Act is a marked diminution in the number of immigrants suffering from trachoma, a condition which was previously very common in those seeking admission to England. A peculiar feature in the experience of the immigration physicians has been an unusual percentage of candidates the subjects of valvular disease of the heart. There can be no doubt but that the enforcement of the Act will lead to improvement in the class of immigrants admitted to Great Britain. It will be interesting to note what effect the introduction of the system in England will have upon immigration to this country.
