REPORT OF THE HEALTH INSURANCE COMMISSION OF PENNSYLVANIA: JANUARY 1919 (CLASSIC REPRINT)

Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Report of the Health Insurance Commission of Pennsylvania: January 1919 We realize that the principal object of our appointment, as of the appointment of similar Commissions in eight other states, was to obtain a report on the advisability of taking in this state this next step in social insurance, the insurance of the employee against sickness. The Commission was appointed on the seventeenth of October, 1917. The fifteen months which have since elapsed have enabled us to gather much information relating to the extent and nature of sickness among wage workers in Pennsylvania, its economic and social effects and the adequacy of the present methods both of treatment and of meeting the losses caused by such sickness. But the time and money at our disposal have not been sufficient to enable us to examine thoroughly, in the light of these facts, the sickness insurance systems in force in other countries or to consider the numerous modifications of these systems which have been proposed in this country. We are therefore not in a position to embody in this report definite recommendations concerning the legislative or other action which should be taken to meet the problems presented by sickness among the wage workers of the state. The Commission might have assumed that the situation created by sickness among employed wage workers in a great industrial state like Pennsylvania is a serious one, and might have expended the appropriation of $5,000 in meetings called to hear the advocates and opponents of the various remedies which have been suggested. But all of us were, and are, unanimously opposed to such a procedure. We believe, and we submit, that the...
