Not illustrated. 1883 Excerpt: . . . through every religious body, and stimulate and strengthen every religious undertaking. Nor can it be said that, amongst all these efforts, missionary enterprises are forgotten. On the contrary, there probably never was a time in which so many agencies were at work in order to bring the power of the Gospel to bear upon those who are indifferent to religious obligations. And these agencies are about as varied as it is possible to imagine. On the one hand, you have such a work as that of the London City Mission, the aim of which is to cover all London with religious visitation; and on the other hand, you have some enterprising gentleman who hires a small room in a back street, paints up a big name upon the door, and sets up in life as a missionary to his neighbours on his own account; combining in his own person the duties of committee, treasurer, secretary, collector, and evangelist, and being at the same time the honorary officer and the paid servant of the high-sounding Society which he has founded. And yet, in spite of all the influence and power of the Church, in spite of all the unusual religious activities of the day, there are still multitudes living amongst us who have no regard for God; and who, so far as any outward expression goes, seem to be absolutely without care as to whether there is a God or not. Nor are these persons by any...
