Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Social Relief in the Northwest During the Civil War The motives for these changes are as varied and even contra dictory as are the forces underlying any other great historic change. Not love of humanity alone but also economic insistence upon the necessity of conserving national resources, has given the impulse, and the result is not due entirely to change of heart but in large measure to the white light of publicity which makes even wilful blindness to conditions almost impossible. But whatever the process, the fact remains that the internal history of the two war cycles reveals sufficient advance in democratic regard for the wel fare of the individual, and sufficient ?ooding of national boundaries by the spirit of humanity, to constitute if not an epoch, at least the difference between the Opening and the middle of an epoch. Midway between the two came the Crimean War and our own Civil War. During the first Florence Nightingale caught the at tention of the world for the sufferings of the soldiers and exhibited an organizing ability that gave a solid basis to her dreams. In the second the best talent of our own country took up the problem. The Sanitary Commission, independent of the government but acting in co - operation with it, not only gave incalculable comfort to the men in the ranks, but made it impossible for any government in the future to neglect them. Out of their labors arose the Red Cross and since then countless provisions, national and international, have represented a world - wide effort to reduce the horrors of the battle field to a minimum.
