Boynton: Delivered at Guilford Battle Ground, July 4, 1900 Tarleton, in his carefully written history, describes Guilford as a stubbornly contested field where victory alternately presided over each army, and, further, as a victory which, however splendid and honorable to the general and the troops, was not useful or advantageous to Great Britain. Fox in the British Parliament, declared that the victory was with the Americans, for, he argued, that in the face of recognized defeat Cornwallis could have done no more than he did do, namely, leave the field and ee to the coast, as he was forced to do. There is one false tradition of this field which the citizens of North Carolina properly combat and deny, and that is the6 Guilford Battle Ground, july 4, 1900.
