THE WORLDS WORK VOLUME 30

RareBooksClub. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 136 pages. LC Number: KF27 . A734 2008b OCLC Number: (OCoLC)316337529 Subject: Command and control systems -- United States. Excerpt: . . . 11 year 2007. However, the Army has reported that future reset costs will depend on the amount of forces committed overseas and the amount of equipment destroyed or damaged. The Army has also stated it will need reset funds for at least two to three years after operations cease. Finally, the Army has estimated that it will need 10 billion to 12 billion to replace prepositioned equipment that it used to support operations and accelerate the creation of additional brigades. However, it is not clear whether these costs have been reflected in DODs funding request to date, and this amount could be modified. Turning to management issues, we have identified a need for the Army to develop a more integrated plan for equipping that promotes greater transparency in its cost estimates and ensures that funding requests are based on sound plans with measurable goals, realistic time frames, prioritized resource needs, and performance measures to gauge progress. The Army currently lacks aspects of such an overall plan. For example, we have reported that the Army lacks a comprehensive plan for equipping modular units that clearly shows equipment requirements, the progress made to date, and how additional funding requests will help to address unmet requirements. In addition, oversight of the Armys equipment initiatives has been complicated by multiple funding requests that make it difficult to obtain the full picture of Army equipment needs and to track how the funds were actually used. As a result of these problems, it is very difficult to determine progress overall that the Army is making with funds already appropriated. For example,...
