Excerpt: . . . fourth letter on civilisation The writer stayed out the winter at Lands End, engaged in the absorbing pursuit of naturalising Alpine plants upon the faces of rock there. He had much to tell Sanchia of this work of his--of his failure in past years and hopes for future. We read of Androsace lanuginosa, Draba aeizoides, of Lithospermum prostratum (o blue sheet of that), and of Ramondia pyrenaica, that exquisite rosette of dark green and mauve, of which I can never have enough. Rejoice with me, Queen of Flowers and Faery. I have three--three!--self-sown plants of it, which will flower in April. I must be here to see; and it would be well that you were here also. His enthusiasm over this growing passion for transforming England by means of flowers goes well in hand with his social schemes. He had, in fact, discovered his...
