Excerpt: . . . NOTES TO ESSAY V. Note K, page 175. THE following account of a person born blind, and couched by Mr. Chesselden, (extracted from the Philosophical Transactions,) affords an interesting illustration of some of my remarks. Observations made by Mr. W. Chesselden, on a young gentleman who was born blind, or lost his sight so early that he had no recollection, of ever having seen, and was couched between thirteen and fourteen years of age. When he first saw, he was so far from making any judgment about distances, that he thought all objects whatever touched his eyes (as he expressed it), as what he felt did his skin; and thought no objects so agreeable as those which were smooth and regular, though he could form no judgment of their shape, or guess what it was in any object that was pleasing to him; he knew not...

Reviews

This is actually the finest ebook we have go through until now. It is writter in straightforward words and phrases instead of difficult to understand. Its been designed in an remarkably straightforward way and is particularly just following i finished reading through this book by which basically changed me, change the way in my opinion.
