The average height of the plateau is about 800ft. Along the raised rim of the plateau there are a number of hills; the highest (Murray Hill) is 1,170ft. The summit is formed of dolomitic limestone. At the northern edge of the hill the phosphate is found on both outer and inner slopes, but further south on the plateau side only, the outer being occupied by a reef of limestone, which descends to the terrace beneath in a low cliff. The area actually covered by this thick deposit of phosphate of lime is about half a mile long by a quarter of a mile broad, but an immense quantity occurs in the form of irregular nodules and blocks scattered over ail the slopes and terraces of this part of the island.
