Forgotten Books, 2018. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Transactions of the Illinois State Dental Society: At the Twenty-Fifth Annual Meeting, Held at Chicago, May 9 to 12, 1899 The year which we round out today has shown very little advancement in the art of filling teeth. And it may be said that dentistry was only one of the many activities which were stunned into inaction during the last twelve months by the intrusion of that dreadful monster, war. The art of healing is an art of peace, and it stands still and languishes when war's alarms are sounded and when man is at strife with his fellow man. The greatest advance during the year seems to have been made in prosthetic and in crown and bridge work, and in therapeutics. The steadily increasing attention given to bridge work incites me to make right here a strong plea for the more conservative treatment of the natural tooth crown. The improved methods of devitalization of the pulp and the filling of the pulp canal, and the comparative ease of crowning, have doubtless been the cause of the destruction of thousands of natural tooth crowns that might better have been filled and saved for many years of usefulness. A better knowledge of alloys and the combinations of different metals for that purpose have, of late, attracted considerable attention. These helpful improvements are, as we know, the direct outcome of the researches of our honored confrere, Dr. G. V. Black. The makers of alloys have taken advantage of the results of these investigations, and as a consequence have given us a much better alloy than we have heretofore used. We all must acknowledge with gratitude the improved methods of...
