His education in higher branches was acquired at Woodfield, Ohio. When the war broke out he was just approaching majority, and, warmly attached to the cause of the Union, he threw himself into the conflict with all the patriotism of a true citizen of his country and all the zeal and ardor of youth. In 1861 he enlisted in Co. E, 77th Ohio Vol. Inf., and served without flinching for nearly five years, and until he was honorably discharged on the 25th of April, 1866. He went through all the trying experiences including forced marches, heavy engagements, and prison life of that long and terrible struggle. Such was his conspicuous gallantry as a soldier that he rose by speedy and well merited promotions through all intermediate grades, from sergeant to the command of a company. During the latter part...
